HIGH SCHOOL COMMENCEMENT

Thirteen Students at Gettysburg
High School Receive Diplomas
Following Completion of Four Years' Term. Prizes Awarded.

Thirteen graduates of the Gettysburg High School received their diplomas at the annual commencement exercises in Brna Chapel Thursday evening. Many friends and relatives of the Seniors were present.

The stage was unusually well decorated for the event. An abundance of potted plants were arranged and the class colors, royal purple and gold, were much in evidence, while motto board and class pin swung in the center from the ceiling. Rustic benches were used instead of the customary chairs.

The Citizens' Band played a stirring march as the graduates took their places and after prayer by the Rev. G. W. Sherrick the orations by the various members of the class followed. Adele Valentine gave the salutatory and then had for her subject "As we Sow," showing the similarity between the sowing of seed to reap an abundant harvest and the early forming of habits and inclinations in moulding life. Richard Mishler, with "The Science of Common Things" as his subject, told of the great discoveries made by simply converting into use every day happenings and spoke especially of the development in electricity and steam. Emma Thorne's subject was "Across the Southern Border." She gave an interesting sketch of Mexico and its possibilities and showed the reasons for the interest of the United States in its southern neighbor.

A large chorus, composed of present scholars, the graduates and alumni of the High School sang "Anchored," and Miss Blanche Weaver followed with "Woman's Work" as her subject. She spoke of women who were prominent in history and then termed the sphere of woman in the home as the highest calling. Miss Sara Bigham recited Tennyson's "The Revenge" very acceptably and Miss Irene Stroup gave an oration on "Civic Pride." She called attention to the numerous ways in which appearance and conditions in a town like Gettysburg can be improved and spoke specially of Detroit as the model city.

Dorsey Weikert's subject was "Our New Found Industry" and he gave a very entertaining sketch of the apple development and progress of apple growing in Adams County telling also of the numerous difficulties with which the orchardists must contend. Miss Kathryn Sachs read her essay on "John Paul Jones" which captured the D. A. R. prize this year. "The Lesson of the Poem" was the subject of Miss Mary Sheeds' oration and she called attention to the necessity of studying a poem closely in order to get its real beauty. An unusually well rendered quartet selection "All through the Night" was sung by Misses Daisy Wentz, Mary Sheeds, Sara Reen and Pauline Rudisill.

Much fun was created by Olive Hoke who, with a magic mirror, foretold the future of each member of the class, seeing all in various pursuits and occupations twenty years hence. Miss Nelle Kelly followed her oration on "The Violin in Song and Story" with a pretty violin solo and the presentations by Ernest Ziegler followed.

Richard Mishler, as the present day knight, received a huge shield emblazoned with various patent medicine advertisements; Kathryn Sachs a parrot to use as a last resort should her conversational powers decrease; Emma Thorne a cushion bordered with roses for use as stenographer—a Thorne surrounded by roses; Olive Hoke a wreath; Irene Stroup an elaborate head dressing in view of her usual refraining from the use of hats or puffs; Dorsey Weikert a little girl; Sara Bigham a jar of baked beans lest supplies along Marsh Creek should fail; Adele Valentine a Salvation Army bonnet and tambourine; Blanche Weaver, a certificate giving her the right to vote and hold any office but road commissioner, or constable, together with weapons necessary in her campaign as a suffragette; Nelle Kelly a man; Luther Musselman a bushel of wild oats; Mary Sheeds a rod and line with a man for bait. Ernest Ziegler was then presented with a kite and a loaf of bread by Sara Bigham.

The address to the graduates was made by Deputy State Superintendent R. B. Teitick who dwelt on the advantages of a high school education. The presentation of diplomas was made by Prof. Calvin Hamilton representing the School Board. Mrs. Walter H. O'Neal in presenting the Daughters of the American Revolution prize of five dollars to Miss Kathryn Sachs for the best essay on "John Paul Jones" said that next year two prizes would be given for the annual historical essay. The nature of the prizes has not been determined upon. Sara Reen received first honorable mention and Dorothy Zane second honorable mention in this.

$50,000 FROM ROCKEFELLER

Gettysburg College Gets Handsome
Gift from Educational Board Established by the Oil Magnate.
Will be Used for Endowment.

Gettysburg College gets a gift of $50,000 from John D. Rockefeller through the General Educational Board. Announcement to this effect was made in New York City Thursday evening following a meeting at which $634,000 was awarded for educational purposes. Franklin and Marshall at Lancaster gets the same amount as Gettysburg.

The gift to Gettysburg College is conditional on an additional $150,000 being raised while Franklin and Marshall must raise $225,000 additional. The money is to be used for endowment only.

The large donation to the local institution is received with congratulation by all connected with Gettysburg College. It is a handsome start towards the endowment fund of $900,000 determined upon some time ago. The remainder to be secured is confidently expected under the aggressive administration of President Granville and the raising of the $150,000 necessary to secure the Rockefeller gift is considered assured.

A representative of the board established by Mr. Rockefeller visited Gettysburg College some months ago and was highly pleased with the conditions and equipment of the local institution. Dr. Granville conducted him about the grounds and buildings at the time and after seeing everything the representative said "This is exactly the kind of a college we want to help."

President Granville has not been idle since that time and he is being warmly congratulated on securing the handsome gift.

DISORDERLY MAN IN THE LOCK-UP

Resident of Near Hunterstown,
Drunk and Disorderly in Town is Placed in Lock-up. Insulted
Woman. Tries to Escape.

Charged with insulting a woman and with drunk and disorderly conduct Bert Wagner of near Hunterstown was given a short session in the Gettysburg lockup Thursday afternoon by Chief Shealer who later released the man upon his promise to leave town.

Wagner came to town on horseback and on one of the principal streets dismounted and started to pay very objectionable attentions to a young lady. She endeavored to get away but he held her until a pedestrian interfered. Chief Shealer appeared on the scene about this time and ordered the man out of town.

He started out the York pike, the chief following on foot. Wagner evidently knew nothing of the chief's watchfulness and when he reached the bridge over Rock Creek turned about and started back. He was soon in Chief Shealer's hands and a trip to the lockup followed.

The officer tied the horse and was opening the door when Wagner leaped on the animal. The policeman caught him before he could get away however and this time soon put him back of the bars. He was allowed to remain there several hours when a promise was exacted that he would leave the borough and he was then given his freedom.

Later he made himself quite conspicuous in Hunterstown.

The animal was caught at Edward Naugle's store where it was discovered that one of the shafts had penetrated its side. Dr. Hudson gave attention.

FIVE MEN FALL FIFTY FEET

Span of Bridge Gave Way and Two Are Fatally Injured.

Altoona, Pa., May 26.—As a climax to a meeting called here Tuesday evening by Pennsylvania railroad shompen at the request of their foremen to protest against labor organizers being here, the strained relations that, it was presumed, had been cleared away between the officials and employees, came to an unexpected head when over 2000 men employed in erecting shops Nos. 2 and 3 assembled in the yard under a bridge, virtually on strike.

The action of the men created intense excitement and there soon assembled on the bridge over the yard a throng of several thousand people, with the result that a span of the bridge gave way and five men spectators plunged into the shop yard, fifty feet below. Two are fatally hurt, while three others received slight injuries.

WOMAN AND SON LYNCHED

Oklahomans Hang Them For Killing a Deputy Sheriff.

Muskogee, Okla., May 26.—News was received here of the lynching of Mrs. Mary Nelson, colored, and her eighteen-year-old son at Okemah, Okla.

An armed mob battered down the door of the county jail, bound and gagged Jailer Lawrence Payne, took the two negroes to the Canadian river, six miles away, and hung them to a bridge.

The affair was kept very quiet and citizens of the town didn't know what had occurred until a farmer drove to town and reported the two bodies hanging to the bridge timbers. At the jail Payne was found bound and gagged.

Two weeks ago Deputy Sheriff George H. Loney was shot and instantly killed while searching the Nelson house for some stolen goods. The woman and her son were arrested and confessed that they had deliberately laid a plot to kill Loney.

$62,658 DAMAGES IN REBATE ACTION

Coal Company Wins Suit Against Pennsylvania Railroad.

Philadelphia, May 26.—Damages to the amount of $62,658.49 were awarded to seven coal companies that sued the Pennsylvania railroad for discrimination in favor of three competitors.

The verdict was awarded by a jury in the United States district court, Judge Holland presiding.

The charge of the different companies was that the Pennsylvania railroad granted rebates to and favored the Berwind-White Coal Mining company, the Glen-White Coal and Lumber company and the Altoona Coal and Coke company in shipments of coal from the Clearfield district.

The suit was originally brought about two years ago by eleven coal companies operating in Pennsylvania and the damages they asked were $1,000,000. Through a ruling of Judge Holland, however, only those who had prepaid the freight charges on coal shipments could rightfully recover. This eliminated four of the companies and cut the amount of damages down to $100,000.

The $62,658.49 awarded was divided among the seven plaintiff companies as follows:

Carbon Coal and Coke company, $58,953.96.
W. H. Sweet, $1889.31.
John Langdon, $1042.13.
E. Eichelberger & Co., $423.13.
Mount Equity Coal and Coke company, $307.05.
Huntington Coal company, $40.06.
W. H. and C. D. Read, $37.75.

HARLAN RIDDLES OIL DECISION

Files Dissenting Opinion Criticizing Colleagues.

TERMS IT COURT MADE LAW

Brands Chief Justice's Opinion as Mischievous and Predicts Turmoil in Business as Result of "Rule of Reason."

Washington, May 26.—Associate Justice Harlan filed in the supreme court his formal dissenting opinion in the Standard Oil case.

Not satisfied with his oral dissent for the court's decision, as handed down by Chief Justice White, Justice Harlan entirely rewrote the stenographic report of his remarks from the bench.

Justice Harlan brands as mischievous the modification made by the court in the decree of the lower court permitting subsidiary corporations of the combination, to make "normal and lawful agreement" among themselves. Chief Justice White had characterized this modification as "minor."

The justice also says: "The disposition of the case under consideration, according to the views of the defendants, will, it is claimed, quiet and give rest to the business of the country. On the contrary, I have a strong conviction that it will throw the business of the country into confusion and invite widely extended and harassing litigation, the injurious effects of which will be felt for many years to come."

In connection with what he terms a "mischievous modification," Justice Harlan quotes the chief justice as saying that "it does not necessarily follow that because an illegal restraint of trade or an attempt to monopolize or a monopolization resulted from the combination and the transfer of the stocks of the subsidiary corporation to the New Jersey corporation, that a like restraint of trade or attempt to monopolize or a monopolization would necessarily arise from agreement between one or more of the subsidiary corporations after the transfer of the stock by the New Jersey corporation."

"Taking this language in connection with other parts of the opinion," says Justice Harlan, "the subsidiary companies are thus, in effect, informed, unwisely, I think, that although the New Jersey corporation, being an illegal combination, must go out of existence, they may join in an agreement to restrain commerce among the states, if such restraint be not 'undue.'"

Justice Harlan reiterates that the court reversed its former rulings in the Trans-Missouri Freight and Joint Traffic association cases. Quoting from each, he says: "These utterances show so clearly and affirmatively, as to admit of no doubt, that this court, many years ago, upon the fullest consideration, interpreted the anti-trust act, as prohibiting and making illegal not only every contract or combination, in whatever form, which was in restraint of interstate commerce, without regard to its reasonableness or unreasonableness, but all monopolies or attempt to monopolize 'any part' of such trade or commerce."

Justice Harlan calls particular attention to an opinion of Judge Taft, now the president, in the Addyston Pipe case. "Judge Taft said," he points out, "that, according to the decision of this court in the freight association case, 'contracts in restraint of interstate transportation were within the statute whether the restraints could be regarded as reasonable at common law or not.'"

The justice also quotes from an adverse report made in 1909 by the senate judiciary committee in reference to a bill proposing to amend the Sherman anti-trust law to distinguish between reasonable and unreasonable restraints.

"On reading the opinion just delivered," he adds, "the first inquiry will be, that as the court is unanimous in holding that the particular things done by the Standard Oil company and its subsidiary companies, in this case, were illegal under the anti-trust act, whether those things were in reasonable or unreasonable restraint of interstate commerce, why was it necessary to make an elaborate argument, as is done in the opinion, to show that, according to the 'rule of reason,' the act as if it contained the word 'unreasonable' or the word 'undue.'"

"In effect," the court says that it will now, for the first time, bring the discussion under the 'light of reason' and apply the 'rule of reason' to the question to be decided. I have the authority of this court for saying that such a course of proceedings on its part would be judicial legislation.

"The supreme law of the land, which is binding alike upon all—upon presidents, congresses, the courts and the people—gives to congress, and to congress alone, authority to regulate interstate commerce, and when congress forbids any restraint of such commerce, in any form, all must obey its mandate.

"To overreach the action of congress merely by judicial construction—that is, by indirection—is a blow at the integrity of our governmental system, and in the end will prove most dangerous to all."

The Man Who Was Bribed

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press.

Abe Slinger and his wife being too lazy to work were determined to live on the community of Hopewell. The constable warned Abe that he couldn't do it. Abe said nothing, but Abe's clothing was found by the mill pond. Mrs. Slinger took on awful, and a soft hearted citizen started a purse for her and $60 were raised, and there were others who contributed food and clothing. The widow moved from the stable into a shanty.

Ten days after the powwow Abe Slinger appeared. He had been carried downstream by the current and thrown on an island, where he had remained unconscious for days and without food for other days. It was a pretty story, but the people had to believe it and congratulate the teller on his wonderful escape.

It was about sixty days later when the next event came off. A citizen who owned a farm outside the village hired Abe to dig a well. He had refused jobs not so hard or dangerous, but he took this one right away. He preferred well digging to even the postoffice steps. When he had been digging for two days and after he had thrown out hints about quicksand and cave-ins the alarm was given that the curbing of the well had caved in and that Abe was probably a dead man eighteen feet down.

There is only one thing to do in such a case—dig the poor fellow out. If living, succor him; if dead, contribute a fund to bury him and carry the widow along. There were some who wouldn't have come down but for the fact that Abe had gone to work and made no kick.

His desire to help himself opened all hearts. If that hadn't then there were the widow's tears and lamentations to fall back on. The sum of $100 was raised for her, and it was more clothes and more provisions.

The bottom of the well was struck at last, but there was no Abe. There sure had been a cave-in, but it hadn't caught him. There was a mystery on hand to be solved. If not at the bottom of the well, then where was he? The question was on every lip for four days, and then Abe came back to answer it himself. It was easily explained.

He had had warning of the coming cave-in and had scrambled out. Such was his terror that he had been temporarily out of his head. He remembered running away as fast as he could, but when his senses came back to him he was thirty miles away and hiding in a farmer's barn. As soon as he had recovered his nerve he came jogging along home and was ready to tackle the job again.

Hopewell shook its head in a doubting way, but did not talk much. Abe Slinger was coming to the front and becoming a hero. He had also moved from a shanty into a cottage and was living on the top shelf. As a matter of fact, he did finish the well and thereby made himself solid with all who might have otherwise criticised. Nevertheless the town constable felt that he had a duty to perform. He went to Abe and said:

"You went to your death in the river and returned. You went to your death in the well and returned. Don't try the little game again. If you do I don't believe the town will raise another dollar for your widow."

The summer had departed and late autumn had come. Abe hadn't tired himself out looking for any more jobs, but was now offered the position of night watchman of the village. It was a cold job and poor pay, and no one wanted it until he stepped forward. Not a robbery had ever been committed in the village, but there were taxpayers who thought it best to guard against such things happening. When the constable heard of the appointment he met Abe to say:

"No foolishness, now."

"If robbers come I shall kill some of them," was the reply.

"But if you have them kill you don't make a mess of it."

"I shall do my best to die, and when you see me lying dead you will be sorry for what you have said."

Two weeks passed, and then one night at midnight there were yells and shots and the noise of running, and the people turned out to find Abe Slinger missing. He was searched for, but not found. Next day there was a grand hunt, but no clue. Robbers had killed him and borne his body away—another public subscription for the widow—more provisions, fuel and clothing. She actually opened an account at the village bank and put on mourning. Another two weeks and the cat came back. Abe walked in to say that he had discovered three yeggmen about to break into the postoffice and when he had fired on them they had seized and chloroformed him and borne him away in a buggy. For twelve days he had known nothing, but now he had come back to take his job again.

Hopewell didn't say much. It didn't threaten. It didn't bring out tar and feathers. It simply asked the question of Abe Slinger:

"How much cash will you take to skate out of this town and stay skated?"

"One hundred dollars," was the prompt reply. And it was raised in an hour, and within an hour Abe and his wife were departing for new fields. They were poor, but honest, but Hopewell preferred the other kind.

DIAZ RESIGNS AS PRESIDENT

De la Barra Now Head of Southern Republic.

THE RIOTING HAS CEASED

Abdication of Mexican Dictator Received With Great Enthusiasm. Seven Killed in Rioting.

City of Mexico, Mex., May 28. — President Diaz resigned his office in a letter to the chamber of deputies, which was read yesterday afternoon. The resignation was accepted, and there was not a voice raised in dissent or protest.

The announcement of the acceptance was received in grim silence. This was in strong contrast to the uproar, almost rioting, which filled the chamber while the populace outside was clamoring for Diaz's resignation.

The resignation of Vice President Ramon Corral was read, following the letter of Diaz. It was also accepted, and then the chamber of deputies formally chose Minister of Foreign Affairs Francisco Leon de la Barra as provisional president, to serve until a general election can be held. Senor de la Barra was sworn in at the national palace.

In the streets, which were crowded with people, the news of the president's abdication was the signal for wild demonstrations of enthusiasm. There was no rioting.

Police Fired Into Mob.

The police fired on a crowd in front of the department of foreign relations. One man was killed.

The Zocalo, from the national palace, was the goal of all, but various bands paraded the business section searching for followers, and one particularly vigorous faction made a tour of La Colonia Belso, a slum section of the city. Their efforts were partly successful. Barely 200 started from the central part of the city, marching toward Peravilla, turning eastward for a few squares, then back toward Zocalo, where they gathered recruits from residents of that quarter. Thousands were in the line of march when it merged on the Zocalo.

From the national palace, especially at the central entrance, mounted police and soldiers were massed.

In the cathedral on the north side troops were stationed and machine guns were masked in the ancient buildings.

When the mob from the Colonia Belso arrived the troops had just begun to rout one particularly thick gathering. Turning their attention to the latest invaders of the big square they charged them at a trot.

Hundreds of the latest arrivals carried over their shoulders rifles and long strips of boards, but no effort at resistance was made.

Retreating into the side streets, they continued marching.

Curious hundreds, not really part of the mob, scattered at every sign of danger, only to return again.

Meanwhile workmen employed by the city continued as well as possible to repair macadam being laid on the Zocalo.

Business Houses Close.

Officially the government maintained a semblance of uninterrupted work, but throughout the business section of the city there was little trade. Business houses continued with shutters placed over them, and there were comparatively few open for trade.

Street vendors were doing a good business in the sale of pictures, both large and small, of Madero, and above the heads of every section of the mob floated the green, white and red colors in flags, varying in size from six inches to ten feet.

An official statement on the number of casualties resulting from the rioting that swept over the city places the dead at seven and the wounded at thirty-six. Several of the wounded are expected to die.

Reports received are that five persons were killed at Guadalajara on Tuesday night. A demonstration occurred at Guadalajara, with cries for vengeance for those killed. The outbreak was quieted when Governor Gallardo resigned.

Lightning Strikes Church.

Stroudsburg, Pa., May 28.—The Mt. Pocono Methodist church was destroyed by fire. Rev. George Schaeffer, pastor, and Andrew Sehnke, the sexton, were in the building waiting for the members to arrive at the prayer meeting when a bolt of lightning struck the building. The pastor and sexton saved the organ and piano. The loss is $5000.

Too Affectionate; Jailed.

Atlantic City, May 28.—For hugging women on the street and scaring them by his attentions, Recorder Keffer sentenced Nathaniel Selby, twenty-two years old, to nine months at hard labor in the county jail.

Taft to Attend Blue and Gray Reunion

Washington, May 28. — President Taft tentatively accepted an invitation to a reunion of the Union and Confederate veterans at Manassas, July 31, the fiftieth anniversary of the last battle of Bull Run.

Old Tantaus, Phrygia's mythical king, may have gazed on water which always eluded his thirsty lips and luscious fruits which hung just beyond his reach, but he was spared the vexation of seeing fat 1,500 pound steers go by his door en route to some central market to tickle the palate of some urban nabob when he was cocksure that the next day for dinner he must be content with a slice of steak from some old blindfold female of many summers and a career replete with honors and offspring.

The child was run down by an automobile driven by Mr. Archbold in 1908. The jury allowed $5000 for her death and $1000 for "conscious suffering."

WYOMING LAUNCHED BEFORE BIG THROG

New Battleship Takes Water at Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, May 26.—The United States launched a new dreadnought in the 26,000 ton battleship Wyoming, which when it gets its full armament will not be surpassed by any fighting ship in the world.

The nation's latest dreadnought went down the ways in the Cramps' shipyard, named by Miss Dorothy Eunice Knight, daughter of former Chief Justice Jesse Knight, of Wyoming, in the presence of Governor Carey and a delegation of visitors from the state for which the ship is named.

Cheers from the crowd assembled on the launching stand, and at points of vantage nearby, greeted the monster ironclad as she slipped into the water. Secretary Meyer, of the navy department, and many naval officers saw the ceremony.

The Wyoming is one of six first class battleships under construction. The Arkansas was the first in the water of this new size and type. The length over all is 350 feet, her beam at the water line is 93 feet, and her displacement is 26,000 tons.

The armament which is to make her the greatest ship in the world, will consist of an even dozen twelve-inch guns, twenty-one five-inch guns, four three-pounders, saluting guns, two one-pounder semi-automatic guns, two five-inch field pieces, two 30-caliber machine guns and two submerged torpedo tubes.

When the battleship is completed she will carry fifty-four officers and a crew of 1930 men.

FEAR 60 PERSONS DROWNED

Steamer Struck Rock and Sunk, Only Forty Persons Being Saved.

Panama, May 26. — The National Steamship line steamer Taboga struck a rock off Punta Mala on Tuesday night and sank a short time afterwards.

Of the 100 passengers on board the Taboga only forty are known to have been saved.

The Taboga had a cargo of cattle and was on her regular coastwise trip. The scene of the accident is about 100 miles from the nearest telegraph station, which makes it difficult to obtain details of the accident.

The United States gunboat Yorktown left Panama for the scene of the disaster.

Boat Captized; Two Girls Drown.

Ogdensburg, N. Y., May 26.—Miss Hazel Hicks, twenty-five years old, and Miss Olive Blaine, twenty-five years old, of the Toronto College of Music, lost their lives in Lake Ontario. In company with C. J. Wolfe and H. A. Clarke, students of Trinity college, the girls went out for a boat sail. A squall came up and the boat was struck by a large wave and capized, throwing all into the water.

London Census 7,252,963.

London, May 26. — Provisional figures returned by the census officers give the population of England and Wales this year as 35,975,269, compared with 32,527,843 in 1901. Greater London's population has increased to 7,252,963 from 6,581,466 in 1901.

COST OF WORK OF LEGISLATORS

This Year's Session Appropriated $58,000,000.

RECORD OF NOTABLE BILLS

Governor Tener's Public Utilities Bill Defeated — $15,000,000 For Public Schools and $4,000,000 For Good Roads.

Harrisburg, Pa., May 26.—The legislature of 1911, which convened on Jan. 3, and which adjourned yesterday, has appropriated $58,000,000, or the estimated total of the state's income for the next two years. This total is $6,000,000 in excess of that appropriated by the legislature of 1909.

About 3000 bills were introduced in the senate and house, of which total over 1200 passed both chambers. Governor Tener has signed 200 bills and he has thirty days in which to make up his mind as to the others.

It is the boast of the senate and house chairmen on appropriations committee that they reduced applications totalling $115,000,000 for state money to about $58,000,000. Governor Tener, organization leaders declare, will have less use for the veto axe than any governor who has sat in the executive chair within their memory.

Governor Tener is regarded as more entitled to credit for this condition than is the legislature. He early took the chairmen of the appropriations committees to one side and declared that he did not intend to shoulder the burden of pruning inflated awards.

The most important measure to meet defeat was the public service commission bill. The bill proposed regulating twenty-nine different kinds of public service corporations. It had rate making powers and also conferred upon the five commissioners proposed by the act practically all the powers enjoyed by the interstate commerce commission. The bill was advocated by Governor Tener in his inaugural address and passed the house, but the senate killed it. The subject of a public utilities commission will be studied by a commission which will report to the next legislature.

The public schools of the commonwealth will get $15,000,000, or approximately one-fourth of the state's income, for the next two years. This great appropriation, it is hoped, will be disbursed to better advantage than the school funds of past years. The increased efficiency is expected under the operations of the school code, generally regarded as the most important piece of legislation passed by the legislature.

Rivaling the school code in importance and involving the greatest financial obligation ever assumed by the commonwealth is the good roads bill, sponsored by Senator William C. Sprout, of Delaware county. The act carries an immediate appropriation of $4,000,000, but it is proposed to finance a bond issue of $50,000,000 through a constitutional amendment, which will be devoted to improving public roads throughout the state.

Another accomplishment of the legislature which is pointed to with pride by the Republican organization and Governor Tener is the reorganization of the state insurance department. Eight bills have been placed on the statute books which will, it is asserted, put the department on a par with any in the country.

A mine code covering many closely printed pages is also looked upon as a notable achievement. It is asserted that it is a distinct advance upon the present laws safeguarding workers in the coal mines. The measure, however, was strongly opposed by a number of miners having membership in the house.

DANES WELCOME U. S. FLEET

King Frederick to Receive Admiral Badger and Give Official Dinner.

Copenhagen, Denmark, May 26.—Copenhagen turned out to greet the second division of the United States Atlantic fleet, under command of Rear Admiral Badger, which arrived here for a week's visit.

Thousands of excursionists cheered as the Kansas, New Hampshire and South Carolina, headed by the flagship Louisiana, moved up the sound to Elsinore. American and Danish flags are lavishly displayed in the capital, where the Danes have prepared to give the American sailors a warm reception.

During the visit King Frederick will receive in audience Admiral Badger and the captains of the American warships. He will give a grand official dinner, where the fleet officers will meet the most prominent people of Copenhagen. A navy ball will be given by the minister of the navy for the officers and midshipmen to meet the Danish officers.

Festivities lasting two days are to be held in the famous Tivoli park, ending with a dinner presided over by the minister of the navy, to petty officers and the crews.

Baby Is Drowned in Wash Tub.

Philadelphia, May 26.—Samuel Es-kovitz, fourteen months old, fell into a wash tub in the back yard of his home, 422 McKean street, and was drowned.

Bees often make fine honey in hot low trees in the woods in a wild state, but they surely need more care than merely "being left alone" if they are expected to give either pleasure or profit under the usual domestic conditions.

The scabby legged hen can be made more presentable if her legs are dipped in coal oil to the hocks and held there a few minutes. If decided improvement is not noticed the treatment should be repeated in the course of a week or ten days.

CATTLE RAISING IN TENNESSEE.

A young man living at Manitowoc, Wis., who is a reader of these notes wrote recently inquiring as to the proposition of raising cattle in the Cumberland mountain district in Tennessee. He asks why it is that cattlemen have not turned to this section in the past, as there are large tracts of suitable land that can be got at a very reasonable price. He inquires what breed of cattle would do best, what would be the best way to get a start in a given breed and about the wisdom of making a deal with wealthy coal men in the section referred to, they to furnish range and be the cattle. Not having first hand knowledge of the section, the writer has made some inquiries about the Cumberland mountain district. It appears that for a number of years this section—in fact, the whole state of Tennessee—was under the ban of the cattle tick pest, which made successful cattle raising impossible. However, in 1906 the federal department of agriculture began co-operating with the state, and at the present writing all of the state but Hamilton county and a portion of Marion county has been removed from quarantine. The chief drawback with cattle raising in the section in question would therefore seem to be removed. For the range conditions mentioned there is little question that the Herefords would be the best breed to raise. In the matter of getting a start conditions would depend somewhat upon the scale on which our correspondent wishes to go into the business. But whether on a large or modest scale it would be wise to get a well bred sire or sires of strong beef characteristics and a few pure bred cows. The rest of the cows should be grades of pronounced beef type, preferably of the same breed. If our friend has had no previous experience in cattle raising we would suggest that he take the business up on a rather limited scale at first, increasing his operations as he gets experience and becomes better acquainted with the new conditions. This will, of course, mean smaller profits in case the venture is successful, yet smaller losses in case of a reverse. The wisdom of going into partnership with the owners of the tracts referred to would seem to depend almost entirely upon whether the right kind of terms can be secured under the terms of the landowners in question will tote fact. This factor could be learned by making inquiry of disinterested persons knowing them well. With cheap and abundant pasture, good markets and the cattle tick pest eliminated, it would seem as if the proposition ought to be a money maker. This takes for granted that our correspondent is a rustler and possesses good judgment. If he takes up the business we would much like to hear from him when he gets squared away.

WHAT DETERMINES THE PRICE?

The proposal to admit Canadian wheat free under the terms of the reciprocity treaty has led to the statement of some rather interesting theories as to wheat movements and prices. On the one hand we have those of a rather practical turn of mind who contend that the admission into the United States duty free of Canadian wheat will in just the proportion that this bears to the total amount of wheat produced at home reduce the price thereon. On the other hand, we have the view of the economist and experienced wheat trader who contends the price of wheat at the big markets in the United States is not determined by home production and consumption in the larger sense at all, but by price levels prevailing on the London and Liverpool markets, which are the wheat clearing houses of the world. The wherefore of the above lies, so it is claimed, in the fact that wheat prices in the United States are determined by the price which our surplus or export wheat fetches on the foreign markets. It follows from the above, if true, that if say, 250,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat were diverted to points in the United States instead of going to English markets the supply at the latter points would be in that proportion lessened. This would mean, if the theory holds water, that the price got for our increased volume of export wheat would be increased as a result, so that in the end the price average would be the same as if the Canadian product were shipped directly to Europe. It would seem to be merely a matter of two ways of getting around the same stump.

A MANIFOLD RETURN.

While roses will give a manifold return in beauty, fragrance and all around satisfaction planted in almost any kind of soil, they thrive best one which contains a good per cent of clay. If the soil about the house does not contain clay a wagon load can usually be got at no great distance. This should be mixed with the loam soil, and if thoroughly rotted manure, leaf mold or decomposed soil can be had so much the better. The roses should be set in the bed two or three inches deeper than they stood in the pot, should be sprinkled daily—sprayed with water under pressure, if possible—sprinkled with flower of sulphur for mildew, with road dust in the morning for slugs and with tobacco tea for spiders and lice. The best blossoms will be produced on the most rapidly growing wood, and this is secured by rather heavy pruning. This applies especially to tens like the American Beauty, but in a less degree to all hardy bush and climbing roses.

As high as $2000 and $3000 per acre has been paid for western fruit land, but these figures are modest compared with $5,000 per acre, the figure at which tobacco land is held on the Isle of Pines. This island is situated about thirty-five miles south of Cuba, in the Caribbean sea, and its fertile soil and balmy climate make it the finest tobacco raising section in the world. With the completion of the Panama canal it is expected that the island will become far better known.

SIGHTED AN ELK.

One Party Lost the Game, While the Other Side Won the Match.

Sometimes the autumn is very hot in the Rockies—hot, still, glittering weather, with the thermometer at 90 or more.

Three hunters on such a blazing autumn day sat on the hotel porch of a small mountain town. Their shirts were open at the throat, and they were fanning themselves with their big felt hats. But suddenly one of them exclaimed:

"Look, boys, look!" They looked where the man pointed, and a wonderful sight met their eyes. On a peak at the summit of the high trail, 3,000 feet above their heads, stood a superb elk. There he stood like a statue, his antlers beautifully outlined against the bright blue sky.

"Bucks are scarce enough, but an elk!" gasped the three hunters, and in a jiffy, forgetting the heat, they were tearing in the red hot sun up the steep trail with their rifles on their shoulders.

Up and up they climbed. The thermometer in the sun was about 120. Finally as their red, dripping and breathless leader peered on hands and knees across a log at the top of the trail he saw a man calmly chewing the stem of an unlighted cigar.

"Did you—did you see—the elk?" panted the leader.

The other, with a laugh, pointed with his cigar to where a little group of campers were unstrapping a pair of old antlers from the head of a mule.

"Pardon me, old man," he said, "but we've just run out of matches, and the day being too hot for a trip down below, we thought we might perhaps decoy a few of you fellows up here to help us out."

Pulling Teeth in Scotland. An old Scotchwoman journeyed to London to visit her son. She was taken with a jumping toothache and upon the advice of her son visited a dentist, who soon had the offending molar lying in the air. With a sigh of relief the old lady climbed out of the chair and asked:

"How mooch?"

"Ten shillings, mam," replied the dentist.

"Ten shillings, is it, ye robber?" screamed the woman. "Why, I'll ha' ye know, Sandy MacPherson 'ud haul me all about the smithy for saxpence."

Youthful Pangs of Hunger.

There's a youngster in Boston whose appetite is a constant source of amazement to his family and relatives.

On one occasion this lad was taken to spend the day with an uncle in the suburbs. At dinner he ate so much that finally it became actually necessary to forbid him to eat any more.

Later, when the family were taking their ease on the porch, the irrepressible William pulled something from his pocket and began gnawing it.

"What have you there?" demanded his father.

"Only a dog biscuit," came in apologetic tone from Willie.

"Where did you get it?"

"I knew I'd be hungry before I got home," explained the lad, "so I took it away from Fido."—Lippincott's.

His Good Resolution.

In a little Irish village there lives a certain worthy who never could pass a public house without "calling in just to ax the time."

One night, however, he made up his mind to pass by for once. It was a very hard job for him, and at intervals he stood still and said, "Stand firm, resolution, stand firm!"

After a hard struggle he gained a little bridge just beyond the inn, and, halting there, was heard to say: "Begorra, resolution, but yer did stand firm that time. Ye deserve a reward, so ye do, and begorra, I'll just go back and trate ye."

Kith and Kin.

"The small boy," said Robert Edison, "is an invention of Satan. At least that is what my friend Jackson thinks. Poor Jack is the devoted slave of a fair damsel cursed with a strict father and an imp of a brother. The other night dad came into the parlor about 9:30 with a 'good night' expression on his face and tactfully asked what they had been talking about to keep them so interested so late.

"Oh," said Jack carelessly, "we were discussing our kith and kin."

"Just then the imp's head popped from behind the piano."

"Yeth, dad," he hissed exasperatingly, "I heard 'em. He said, 'kin I kith you?' and she said, 'you kin!'" —Young's Magazine.

A TRAGICAL ROMANCE.

A cat crouched on a garden fence. A maid at her window sat. A bachelor sat in his hencoop. With a gun for that old cat.

The cat sprang for the chickens. The bachelor shot at the cat. The maid fell from the window. And landed on her rat.

In his arms he lifted her gently. She started to frown; but, no. Just then cute Cupid arrived there. And drew back his strong bow.

The bachelor had missed the tomato. But Cupid was a sure shot. He let his arrow go singing. And killed two birds at one shot. C. M. BARNITZ.

FITS, SUNSTROKE, LIMBERNECKS

These three ailments when seen among fowls are often confused, but there is a difference.

In fits or epilepsy the eyeballs turn back, lids open and close, head is thrown back, bird walks zigzag, lies on back and claws the air and flaps its wings on ground or faints dead away.

While at times these spasms have their cause in the brain, they mostly come from intestinal worms.

There are few cases where fanciers feed a worm killer occasionally, such as one tablespoonful of turpentine or a handful of oak ashes to every two quarts of mash.

The pressure of a finger tip on the eyeball will often bring a bird back to consciousness.

CHICKS EATING MAGGOTS.

consciousness, and it will often run off seemingly none the worse for wear and may never have another attack.

Sunstroke is different.

Like humans, the fowl is often struck down quick.

It generally lies where it falls and is often found with feet spread wide beneath the body.

If not killed by the stroke the victim often gets blind staggers, running into any obstacle in its path.

In case of sunstroke a dip in cold water will sometimes save, but young stock is generally killed outright.

A tablespoonful of epsom salts is also given to old stock.

Limberneck gets its name from the chief symptoms of this trouble.

The neck gets limber as a cotton string, and the bird flattens out.

The chief cause is maggots in meat or sour mash.

The maggots get on to the nerves.

The chicks in the picture have found the carcass of a sunstroke victim and are helping themselves to a dose of limberneck.

As a remedy for this trouble first remove the cause, then give the victim a two grain asafoetida pill and place a teaspoonful of hyposulphite of soda in every quart of drinking water.

DOON'TS.

Don't strain at a gnat and swallow a gold brick.

Don't live among the relics of the past in this bright age when all improves so fast. This is a day of advanced thought, a day when wonders great are wrought. So let us with the might and main of heart, of hand, of brain, a greater victory still attain and win eternity's acclaim.

Don't be a pickle. A sweet smile doesn't cost you a red cent. Then smile—yes, smile—to all and spread content.

Don't let your temper get the best of you, for then you surely show the worst of you. That temper is to steel your will, your heart, your brain, your hand, that you may reach success, sublime and grand. So make it help you in your valiant fight until you're crowned a victor on yon golden height.

Don't ship dressed or live fowls by freight. If they don't spoil or die they may get there too late.

Don't be in a hurry to dun a customer. Deal on a cash basis if possible. When some people say, "Just charge that to me," you never a cent of their spandulicks see.

Don't make roost slats round and narrow. Corns.

Don't have nests too small. Broken eggs.

year's contest.

Calvin Hartman, president of the Alumni Association, gave the first honor prize of $5.00 to Luther Musselman with an average of 95 and the second honor prize of $3.00 to Adele Valentine with an average of 93. Lottie Raffensperger and Margaret Troxell were given the three dollar prize in spelling with the exceptional mark of 99.7, offered by the High School faculty. Prof. Burgoon making the presentation. Prof. Burgoon also presented the $5.00 special prize to Blanche Weaver for her unusual faithfulness in the discharge of all school duties, for her loyalty to the school and for her attendance record, not having missed one day in ten years. The quartet sang "Sleep Kentucky Babe."

The valedictory by Luther Musselman followed an oration on "Our Athletic Needs" in which he told of the need for some place for carrying on athletics in connection with the High School.

Rev. G. W. Sherrick pronounced the benediction and the commencement of 1911 was at an end, one of the most successful graduation exercises ever held by the local schools and one of the most creditable to all connected with the schools. And in praising those connected with the commencement the services of Janitor Little to whose endeavors the tasteful arrangement of the stage was due must not be forgotten.

The department of agriculture has sent out notice of the importation within the past few months of 370,000 pounds of Chilean clover seed, all of which contains seed of dodder in such quantity that 450 dodder seeds will be scattered to each square rod of the seed. The seed in question has been distributed in the southern part of the clover belt, where favorable conditions will make the dodder very destructive to the clover plants. The seed is said to be pump and fine looking and about 50 per cent larger in size than ordinary clover seed.

That the Panama canal is going to have a vital bearing on transcontinental and world transportation problems, besides proving a feather in Uncle Sam's cap as a doer of big things, is nicely shown in a movement which has already been put afoot looking to the making of Portland, Ore., the great shipping point of the fruits grown in the Pacific northwest. At this point ocean freighters are to be loaded with the fine boxed fruits for southern and Atlantic coast points and for the big markets of England, France and Germany. The water route from Portland to New York via Cape Horn is now approximately 15,200 miles. By the short cut through the Panama canal it will be but 4,250 miles. It goes without saying that when this ocean route is opened transcontinental roads will lower rates at all competitive points.

DON'T BE THIN

No Need of Being Scrawny, Weak and Emaciated.

In these days of physical culture and health foods, one would hardly expect to see any thin, weak, emaciated people, but in spite of all this, nearly every person you meet is thin and scrawny.

Good healthy flesh can only be gained by the use of the proper food with thorough assimilation of the fat-giving elements. Nine people out of ten in order to weigh as much as they ought and be perfectly healthy, should use Samose, the great flesh-forming food. Weigh yourself before commencing to use these little tablets and see how your weight increases.

Samose has valuable flesh-forming and tissue-building properties, and when it is assimilated with the food, it causes the flesh-forming elements to be retained and the weight is naturally increased.

PEOPLE'S DRUG STORE THE POPULAR DRUGGIST, HAS sold in the last few weeks, a great many packages of Samose, every one with their personal guarantee to refund the money if it did not give satisfaction and has had but one person ask for the money back.
